FIT

Each PAYPER garment is designed for a particular type of fit with specific characteristics determined by its intended use, taking into account that it will generally be used for promotional or professional purposes and the need for adaptability to many different situations.

The fit of a garment is defined according to its fabric and the type of the article itself and thus the size required is determined by varying the difference between body measurements, as specified in the size chart, and that of the garment.

This difference hence varies from garment to garment, with three different types of fit.

Regular Fit: The size chart takes into account a generous difference to allow freedom of movement that ensures the garment is practical and comfortable.

Casual Fit: The garment is designed with measurements and modelling details that will satisfy those more interested in the look of the article, who want to combine casual style with a comfortable fit.

Real Fit: Every detail of the model is studied and developed size by size, to ensure the garment will be tailored to ensure a perfect fit.

CHOICE OF SIZE

Once you have identified the fit and the size it is always advisable to try the product before you buy it, use it and customise it. You should also bear in mind that the production itself can have a tolerance of + / - 3% with respect to the specifications of the garment size.

When trying the size of a cotton garment you should always consider greater tolerance, particularly as regards sleeve length, since all such garments when washed according to the label instructions will undergo a natural variation in size of about 5%
